

COACH BURNS PLEASED WITH BASEBALL PROSPECT

CANDIDATES PRACTICE DAILY.

With the opening of the baseball season not three weeks away, Coach Burns expects to have his charges outdoors for practice as soon as weather conditions permit. It was expected that outdoor practice would begin this week, but adverse conditions the past few days have delayed the advent of the squad on the field. Although the season opens with Brown at Providence, April 5, the first game of importance will come the following Saturday, when the Trinity team crosses bats with the Holy Cross nine in Hartford.

This game is expected to prove the most popular drawing card of the season, for the Massachusetts College is well known as one of the leading baseball colleges in the East and has a large backing in and around Hartford, and the appearance of the Purple team in this city is expected to bring out a large crowd.

Although indoor practice has been limited to limbering up the arms of the candidates, Coach Burns expresses himself as very well pleased with the outlook for the season, and states that the calibre of the men surpasses his first expectations. In the pitching department, Shepard has taken Coach Burns' eye, and with Goldstein, Reynolds, and King, as second-string men, Trinity should have an exceptionally good string of box artists. "Scooty" Matchton, who starred for the Hartford High team last spring is already slated for a berth behind the bat, while in the infield Lynch, Poss, Curtis, Racine, and Cram are showing up well. The outfield candidates include Nichols, Reynolds, Bruce, and Goldberg.

SENIOR ASSEMBLY POSTPONED.

The Senior Assembly, which was to have been held before the Lenten season has been postponed on account of the resignation of Edward M. Hyland, who was elected chairman of the assembly committee at the last meeting of the Senior Class.

LIEUTENANT BAUER COMPANY COMMANDER AT STORRS.

When the R. O. T. C. unit at the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs was organized on February 6, among the officers appointed by the commandant was Frederick Bauer, to be Cadet Second Lieutenant of "A" Company and Company Commander. This is the highest office in the battalion short of commandant. Lieutenant Bauer will be remembered as commander of Company "B" and instructor in small arms at Trinity during the S. A. T. C. regime.

VAN ZILE, '12, RECOVERING FROM WOUNDS.

News has been received that Edward B. Van Zile, '12, reported wounded, "extent unknown", last November is still in the hospital recovering from his wounds. On October 12 or 14, 1918, while with the Machine Gun Company, 6th Infantry, 5th Division, he was wounded and was removed to Base Hospital 48, suffering with a severe concussion. From there, he was removed, January 8, 1919, to the Red Cross Hospital at St. Aignan and on February 25, was at the Base Hospital at Brest, awaiting transportation home where he will probably be a hospital case for some time.

Originally with the Headquarters Troop of the 5th Division he was transferred September, 1918, to the Machine Gun Company, 6th Infantry, of the same Division. While with the Headquarters Troop for three months, he was engaged in carrying dispatches between Field and Brigade headquarters and was slightly wounded in the hand at St. Mihiel while engaged on this duty.

COL. MOORE CITED FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

IN REGULAR ARMY SINCE 1897.

We have just been advised that Col. Jairus A. Moore, '97, has been cited for meritorious and distinguished service in the Railway Artillery Reserves during the severe fighting at St. Mihiel and on the Meuse. He has been in the regular army since his graduation from Trinity having enlisted in the fall of 1897 and having been sent to the Philippines the next year. Col. Moore is now in this country at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in Buffalo, New York. The official citation reads as follows:

For meritorious and distinguished service to the Government in a responsible position in connection with military operations against an armed enemy of the United States.

From September 3, to October 8, 1918 he commanded the East Railway Grouping in the St. Mihiel operation, and the 2nd Railway sub-Grouping in the Argonne-Meuse operation of the First Army, American E. F. He rendered signally efficient service in organizing and commanding in action, the units mentioned, under conditions new and untried in the American military service, thereby contributing largely to the success of the American arms.

WHIPPLE OFFICIALLY CREDITED WITH ENEMY PLANE

WAS WOUNDED BY FRAGMENT OF BOMB.

Returns Home on Indefinite Furlough.

With an enemy plane to his credit and wound stripe on his sleeve, Lieutenant Sidney Whipple, '20, of the Royal Air Force arrived at his home in Norwich, Conn., last Thursday. Whipple was one of the many men who left college to enlist when the war broke out. He attempted to set into the aviation service, but the statement of the recruiting officer at the U. S. Recruiting Station in Boston, that he would have to wait six weeks before getting into service in the U. S. forces prevented him from enlisting there and he joined the Canadians.

He received his first training in the ground school at Toronto and later went to the aviation school at Toronto University. He received instruction in photography, aerial gunnery, and formation flying at one of the Canadian flying fields maintained at Fort Worth, Texas. Lieutenant Whipple received his commission after his Texas training and sailed for England from Halifax with 125 other aviators on February 28, 1918. On the way over, the transport he was on sunk a submarine with a depth bomb.

Lieutenant Whipple trained at Oxford for active fighting, using the Bristol two-seated fighting plane. Here he had his first accident. His engine went dead just as his machine rose and he had barely time to jump before the machine burst into flames.

Lieutenant Whipple went to France on August 8, 1918, and had been there but two days when he was sent out to spray the Hun trenches with machine gun bullets, one of the most dangerous jobs an aviator gets. His next flight was with a bombing squadron which in the course of the flight accounted for a troop train behind the German lines. The planes flew low enough so that they could use their machine guns on the Huns as they left the train to seek cover in the woods. Lieutenant Whipple was with a number of squadrons which brought down Hun planes, but he didn't get credit for any of them until he had participated in the destruction of three Hun planes.

The day he "got" the Hun with which he was officially credited, he was flying with the squadron. The flight commander dove for the enemy plane, but his gun jammed and he slid out of the way so that Whipple got his chance. Whipple turned loose his machine gun and says that he saw the pilot of the Hun plane sag in his seat. The plane dropped and then burst into flames.

Lieutenant Whipple's squadron had an encounter with the famous Richt-

FINAL TRY-OUTS FOR JESTERS.

At a meeting of the Jesters on Wednesday evening, March 12, Miss Hallie F. Gelbart, the Dramatic Coach for the season, spoke to the members in regard to the coming production to be staged on April 23. Since there may be a change in the choice of the plays to be produced, it was deemed wiser to spend the time in discussing plays, rather than to hold try-outs at that meeting as was originally planned. The try-outs were postponed to Tuesday afternoon, March 18, each one being given passages from Shakespeare to prepare by the delivery of which Miss Gelbart will judge each man's ability.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY SCRAP
TUESDAY MORNING.

Twenty-Four Freshmen Picked for Fracas.

March 18 was the date set for the St. Patrick's Day Scrap at a conference of the presidents of the freshman and sophomore classes with the Senate Committee last Monday. Several radical changes in the usual methods of procedure were introduced by the rules which were posted in the early part of the week. In accordance with the action of the Senate in regard to the matter, the freshmen were limited to twenty-four men in the actual scrap Tuesday morning, but the whole class was allowed to participate in the activities of the night before. The freshman class was ordered to submit lists of their twenty-four picked men to the Senate Committee and to the Sophomore President before Saturday. These men alone were eligible for capture and if captured their places could not be filled by substitution. No sophomores could be captured before 7 p. m. or while in any of the college buildings. The following men were chosen by the freshman class to take part in the scrap: Thomas Ahern, Wilson G. Brainerd, C. B. Bristol, Warren F. Caldwell, J. J. Carey, J. B. Cunningham, L. F. Dettenborn, J. M. England, A. C. Gorman, A. N. Guertin, L. M. Guzzo, H. D. Henson, A. S. Johnson, M. R. Mohnkern, B. R. L. Newsome, R. E. Nordlund, H. Ortgies, S. C. Parker, R. J. Plumb, R. G. Reynolds, A. L. Roulet, R. T. Sheldon, K. N. Soule, and Frederick Tansill.

COURSES OPEN TO FRESHMEN.

At the regular monthly meeting of the faculty, March 11, it was decided to allow freshmen to take History 1 (History of Modern Europe) and Philosophy 1 (Logic and Psychology). Heretofore these two courses have been elective for members of the three upper classes only.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH TRINITY TENNIS?

To the Editor:

As an old member of the Trinity tennis team, it is a keen disappointment to me to note the lack of interest displayed by the men in college over the apparent collapse of the tennis schedule for this year. There is plenty of material in college for a good team—that is the saddest part of the whole situation. But why this apparent lack of interest? Firstly, because the leaders of the sport are weary of prolonging a struggle for funds which has marked the entire history of tennis as an intercollegiate sport in the college. Secondly, because the tennis association is not organized and there is no one who cares to assume responsibility on his own account. And, thirdly, because the athletic committee on the faculty does not seem disposed to grant sufficient "cuts" to the players to allow them to carry on a suitable schedule.

So far as the first reason is concerned, I was present at a meeting of the athletic association in 1914, when it was decided that tennis should be given an allotment of seventy dollars or so for the expenses of carrying on the schedule. Splendid—but the money was only paid for a season or two and then the payment was for some reason discontinued. Whether the 1914 ruling was ever annulled or not I do not know. Nobody seems to know. But whether it has or not, tennis men are tired of arguing for funds every year. They feel that this great sport should be supported as a matter of course, as it is in other colleges. And, furthermore, the tennis men are tired of paying their own expenses on trips and for matches which are supposed to represent the college.

As for the second reason, I can only say that a week or so ago a call was sent out for a meeting of all the men in college who were interested in tennis. The purpose of this meeting was to elect a manager of the team who could arrange a schedule. The notice of the meeting was placed on the bulletin board three days in advance, so that all those interested could have a chance to plan to be present. But only four men showed up, and consequently no manager could be elected.

As for the last reason, I can only appeal to the faculty athletic committee to observe the signs of the times. If Trinity smothers her tennis spirit at this time she will be the only college in the East that is doing so. Tennis is a gentleman's game, but none the less red-blooded for that. Tennis, if properly fostered, would bring the right sort of men to Trinity. Surely we cannot stand by and see this sport, which has such a glorious record behind it here, die without a struggle. Trinity founded the Intercollegiate Tennis Association. Trinity's representatives have won the Intercollegiate and New England Intercollegiate. And feats like these can be accomplished again if the college will stand behind her players with her interest, with her money, and with her encouragement.

I wish to appeal for a final effort on the part of all.

SAMUEL HARMON EDSALL.

CHURCHILL, '16, BACK IN U. S.

In a letter written on March 12 at Camp Upton, Second Lieutenant Alvord B. Churchill, '16, who has been overseas since last June, tells of his experiences "over there" with the 349th Field Artillery. He states that he hopes to be back on a visit to Trinity "in about two weeks." The following is an extract from his letter:

"I sailed for France with the 349th F. A., arriving at Brest, June 28, 1918. The regiment was sent to Montmorillon, Vienne, for training, and I with several officers was sent to La Courtine Creuse for special training in reconnaissance, orientation and topography. When the regiment arrived for target practice on the range, I took up my duties as reconnaissance officer and adjutant of the First Battalion, a position which I have filled up to the present. The latter part of September the regiment had completed its long course of training and was ordered up to the front, taking over a part of the Marbache Sector at Pont-a-Mousson in front of Metz. We remained in that neighborhood through October and up to the armistice, taking part in the usual routine of sector fighting and staging a little five-kilometer drive toward Metz on November 10 and 11, preliminary to the big drive on that stronghold scheduled for November 15. I ran into Jack Townsend, '16, at Metz shortly after the armistice. After policing up our portion of the front, we started our slow journey to the coast in December, staying at Dompont, Orne, through January, and Le Mans and Brest in February. At last, March 3, we sighted the Statue of Liberty from the decks of the Great Northern after a rather rough voyage. As things appear now, another week will see the end of my military career.

Sincerely yours,
ALVORD B. CHURCHILL,
Second Lieutenant, 349th A. C. A.

A speech of Prof. Andrew E. Douglas, Sc. The subject is "The Steward Observatory of the University of California." Dr. Douglas is now professor in the University of Arizona.

LITERARY CLUB MEETS.

The second meeting of the Literary Club was held Tuesday evening, March 11, at Dr. Odell Shepard's apartment. There were about fifteen members present.

A paper on "The Novel" was read by Hungerford, '22, and another, "Poetry", was read by Richard Wyse, '19. The discussion aroused by the latter paper led Dr. Shepard to read his essay on "The Poetry of the War."

The next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday evening, March 18, at 7 o'clock.

TRACK MEETING.

A meeting of all those interested in track has been called by Captain Frank R. Fox for Wednesday at 12.45 p. m. in the History Room.

Rev. Geo. William Douglas, D.D., '71, is the author of an article on "Internationalism and the League of Nations," appearing in the current issue of "The Chronicle."

He was in a canteen when the Huns raided the field. A lucky hit fired the petrol tanks and with such a glaring target the bombs fell like rain. Whipple started to run for a field and a man with him went for the dugouts. A bomb had fallen near them and Whipple was severely wounded by a fragment of it. They never found as much as a button of the man who had been running for the dugouts.

Lieutenant Whipple spent several months in various hospitals in France and England and when well enough to travel, was sent home on an indefinite furlough. He arrived in Philadelphia on February 21, just lacking a week of being a year from the day he sailed for England.
